BOARD CHAIR MESSAGE

Dear Fellow Community Stakeholders,

Growing up in south Los Angeles, I often dreamt about my communities' untapped potential and what it could accomplish if residents band together to address some of the biggest challenges it faced. Almost all of my mentors were entrepreneurs, educators, law enforcement officers, or community leaders who had a strong desire to improve the socioeconomic conditions of the area where I lived.

I was most inspired when I witnessed educators join students to fight for more equitable resources in our public schools, entrepreneurs create new businesses that reclaimed and improved the appearance of neglected city blocks, law enforcement officers working with members of the community to prevent and deter gang violence, and community leaders who held no official title rally local residents to address issues of public concern. It was these experiences that shaped my beliefs on how positive change in a community really happens: when ordinary people take ownership and work together to protect public values.

When we think about what defines a community, there is a common misconception a community is merely a group of individuals who live in a geographical area. But individuals engaged in the field of public service know that it's not just people who live in an area that make up a community. Communities include residents, business owners, and government officials alike. And when communities are faced with complex problems, resolving them is not a solo endeavor. Achieving optimal outcomes require collaboration between all stakeholders. When everyone participates, communities are stronger and better prepared to address future challenges.

While I've had the awesome honor and privilege of serving my community as a law enforcement officer, I slowly came to realize that achieving long-term solutions was not possible without collaboration and cooperation from residents, religious organizations, specialized institutions, and other civil servants. Fostering an atmosphere that suggests "we are all in this together" has allowed me to take advantage of opportunities that benefit everyone involved.

That is why the Lampkin Foundation is about encouraging, empowering, and inspiring everyday people to work together and developing partnerships to build stronger, more resilient communities.

Looking back at year 2018, there is no doubt that the Lampkin Foundation is well on its way to fulfilling its mission. Last year was filled with promises delivered. We have gotten better at our messaging and are already inspiring people to look into ways they can improve their community. I am especially proud of the fact we were able to bring community stakeholders together in our home city of Ontario, California for our Social Good Benefit Gala. It is rare for a grassroots organization such as ours to successfully plan and host a benefit gala such as the one held in September within its first full year of operation. If you were unable to attend, don't worry. This Annual Report highlights many of the accomplishments presented and more. You will also read a number of stories about how the Foundation is motivating the next generation of leaders to think critically about how they intend to serve their own communities.

Progress doesn't come easy, and it doesn't always follow a straight line, but I seriously believe that the history of this organization will move in the direction of stronger communities, healthier lives, and common good – as long as we remember, "We're all in this together."

LAMPKIN FOUNDATION INITIATIVES

BREATH GIVING PORTRAITS PROJECT The purpose of the Breath Giving Portraits Project, which began in 2012, is to bring awareness to children restricted by symptoms of pulmonary fibrosis. This project is hosted annually in partnership with Children's Hospital Los Angeles and Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

THE DISASTER RELIEF EFFORT It is best to think of recovery as a process because there are various levels or steps to recovering from a natural or man made disaster. In terms of human impacts of disasters, the kinds of impacts we can expect when a major disaster occurs are both physical and psychological. The Lampkin Foundation supports community efforts to recover following natural and manmade disasters.

DNA – DEVELOPING NEIGHBORHOOD AGRICULTURE Our mission is to support community-based health programs for under-served communities and to share lessons and build solidarity through global partnerships. We accomplish this by supporting community farm projects. The DNA Initiative also endeavors to provide fresh produce to communities identified as food deserts.

SOCIAL GOOD SCHOLARSHIP FUND Access to higher education is a key component to building stronger communities. The Social Good Scholarship Fund is open to students currently enrolled at a U.S. accredited public or private high school (no full-time home-schooling students are eligible). Students must be in their junior or senior year to be eligible to receive an award.

YOUR STORY Following the second year anniversary of the founding of the D'Andre D. Lampkin Foundation, we want to be able to tell a much fuller story of what you are doing to help make your communities stronger and more resilient. We also want to give visitors to our website a more detailed picture of how the Foundation is inspiring others throughout the nation and around the world. We encourage you to share your stories in whatever format best illustrates your efforts.

ABOUT THE FOUNDATION

The Lampkin Foundation is a 501\(c\)\(3\) charitable organization operating programs throughout California that have a significant impact in a wide range of issue areas, including education, economic development, climate change research, health and wellness, and providing healthy alternatives for under-served communities.

The Foundation carries on the initiatives and work started by D'Andre Lampkin such as the Breath Giving Portraits Project, which began in 2011, and the Social Good Scholarship Fund, which was started in 2016. We have added two additional programs: the Disaster Relief Effort and the DNA Initiative to address the needs of under-served communities working toward becoming stronger and more resilient. The Foundations initiatives focus on providing resources and manpower to projects that foster opportunity for under-served communities and minority populations. In many cases we are addressing the needs of communities as they arise.

A California native, D'Andre Lampkin was born and raised in the economically deprived region of South Central Los Angeles by a single mother. The D'Andre D. Lampkin Foundation began as one man's dream to help community members realize the full potential of their community by encouraging them to become stakeholders and contributors of their communities' future. Building stronger communities is not just a function of government. It only made possible through collaboration between residents, community leaders, non-profit, and for-profit organizations.

IN OUR SUPPORTERS WORDS

Dear Fellow Community Stakeholders,

As real estate agents it is important for us to partner with organizations that positively impact the communities we serve and do business in. The D'Andre D. Lampkin Foundation has been an integral part of making the Inland Empire region of California a better place for its residents. Specifically, their DNA (Developing Neighborhood Agriculture) Initiative provides access to fresh produce to families that may not be able to afford them. We have also enjoyed participating in various tree planting and city beautification projects. The Lampkin Foundation's reach is global with funds assisting national disasters and catastrophic events. We are thankful to be a part of their team of supporters and look forward to the continued partnership and assisting in the good work they are doing.

STORIES THAT BUILD COMMUNITY

Dear Fellow Community Stakeholders,

One way I've helped my community become stronger and more resilient is by continuously engaging in volunteer work. One particular activity I enjoyed is participating in my local food bank. I helped not only collect food for those in need but also helped pass it out. I was trying to help those in need who were not able to afford food for themselves and their family. My community helped with this activity. I also received help from my class mates and family members. Seeing the smiles and the happiness it brought others made all the difference to me. It's always the little things that mean the most to people. It took time and constant effort to gather everything but it was worth it and its something that made a difference in my community.

MaryJane Carreno

IN OUR SUPPORTERS WORDS

Dear Fellow Community Stakeholders,

My name is Blanche Hill, Advisory Council Team Director at St. John's Missionary Baptist Church in Indianapolis, Indiana and a proud supporter of the D'Andre D. Lampkin Foundation. For many in my community, the Labor Day weekend marks the end of the summer season and the beginning of another school season. My thoughts are with this years Social Good Scholarship recipients.

This year, I had the opportunity to follow the selection process for the 2018 Social Good Scholarship recipients and I was impressed by the nominees. Their stories remind me of words shared by philanthropist and initiator of international Good Deeds Day, Shari Arison:

"Doing Good is a simple and universal vision. A vision to which each and every one of us can connect and contribute to its realization. A vision based on the belief that by doing good deeds, positive thinking and affirmative choice of words, feelings and actions, we can enhance goodness in the world."

I believe today's youth are realizing this vision. This is especially true for the youth that the D'Andre D. Lampkin Foundation mentors. They are indeed our hope for a better tomorrow. Please join me in supporting the Foundation's Social Good Scholarship Recipients as they begin their first year of higher education this fall. I congratulate and honor them all with prayers that each on of them will encourage another to pattern after them.

Sincerely,

Blanche Hill, Director

D'Andre D. Lampkin Foundation Rallies Community Support for Ontario Octogenarian

Ernestine Allen is a 32-year resident of the city of Ontario who has seen many changes over the years on her mostly palm-tree-lined street, Plaza Serena. But one thing has stayed constant: everyone communicates and looks out for one another. In May, Ernestine noticed the diadora pine tree located in her front yard beginning to lean as winds battered the Ontario area. She was concerned parts of the tree would fall and damage adjacent homes or neighbors walking by her home.

In the past, Ernestine would rely on family and neighbors to locate reasonably priced tree trimming services. But as the cost of tree trimming rose over the years, her fixed income could not keep up with the inflation. As a last resort, Ernestine reached out to the City of Ontario for help. Because the tree was located on private property, the city of Ontario referred Ernestine to the D'Andre D. Lampkin Foundation for assistance. The Lampkin Foundation's mission is to create positive opportunities and change for individuals, communities, and environments. The organization engages in projects that foster the development of stronger, more resilient communities. When the Lampkin Foundation reached out to several of Ernestine's neighbors for input, they found an already vibrant community.

One neighbor, Donna said "I've known Ernestine for about 3 years and she is always jumping in to help people despite her age. She even mows her own lawn." She recalled an occasion when she and Ernestine worked together to provide fans to another neighbor whose air conditioning went out during the summer season. When another neighbor was ill, Ernestine volunteered to drive them to the nearest hospital.

The Lampkin Foundation is a 501(c)(3) charitable organization which relies on the contributions of volunteers, public donations, and donor partners to make an impact. One of those donor partners, Empire Tree Services, volunteered to help. Within days, the crew got to work, cutting back the tree so that it would be ready to handle the winds and alleviate Ernestine's concern for her neighbor's safety.

"It's nice to know I still have neighbors who look out for each other and help each other when it's really needed," Ernestine said. When asked about what makes her community strong, Ernestine said, "Everybody knows everybody and everybody pitches in. One neighbor is a professor and he helps educate people in the community." Donna said, "Everybody has a responsibility to be a good neighbor. Residents pay money and taxes to live here. So, they need to know they are invested."

Empire Tree Services completed the tree trimming on Ernestine's 82nd birthday. Family, friends, and neighbors joined in a barbecue to celebrate the momentous occasion.

DEVELOPING NEIGHBORHOOD AGRICULTURE

Community Tree Stewards

In February, volunteers from the D'Andre D. Lampkin Foundation kicked off the years' DNA Initiative by participating in training to become Tree Stewards. The training was hosted by the Inland Empire Resource Conservation District. The goal of the training was to develop volunteer leaders to coach and mentor other volunteers who would later help to plant trees on Arbor Day.

165 Trees Planted Throughout Ontario, California

In March, Fifteen Lampkin Foundation volunteers participated in the Ontario Arbor Day Celebration. This event could not have been a success without the dedication and hard work of our volunteers. Despite the rain, Lampkin Foundation volunteers helped to plant 165 trees throughout Ontario, California.

More than 40 Ontario residents, students, and community shareholders came to support Inland Empire Resource Conservation District and CIRCLE 2.0's larger effort to plant over 1650 trees across California and the city of Ontario's effort to reduce and limit carbon emissions. Ontario, California is well on it's way to retaining it's status as a "Tree City USA." The community will benefit from the developing shade, and reduced carbon emissions.

Gardening For Healthier Communities Continues

The DNA Initiative combines topical conversations, active working sessions, and farming education to highlight the importance and need for fresh organic produce in highly populated urban areas. The Lampkin Foundation continues to partner with Huerta Del Valle, a non-profit, to host "Gardening for Healthier Communities."

Each session includes a one-hour educational component along with a working session where volunteers plant and harvest produce to create Community Supported Agriculture baskets. These baskets are sold to families looking for affordable organic produce or donated to families who cannot afford the cost.

The Foundation also raises money throughout the season to support the cost of baskets donated to families in need.

Funds Raised for 7 Community Supported Agriculture Baskets

Hector is five years old and, he too, already believes he is strong enough to make his community stronger. Twice he and his family participated in our Gardening for Healthier Communities series.

Thanks to donors and supporters like them, the Lampkin Foundation is not only able to sponsor and create programs and initiatives that lead to the development of stronger communities, we are able to get people thinking about how they can make a positive impact - no matter how old they are.

Thanks to community members like Hector, we are reminded that there are no limitations to what we can accomplish when we work together. Thank you to all who have participated, supported, or donated to our Developing Neighborhood Agriculture Initiative thus far. Your kindness and generosity is making a difference.

2018 SCHOLARSHIP FUND COMMITTEE CHAIR MESSAGE

Dear Fellow Community Stakeholders,

Thank you for your continued support of the D'Andre D. Lampkin Foundation. Not only are we building stronger communities through volunteerism and partnerships, we are also providing access to education to our next generation of community leaders. In year 2018 I had the honor and privilege of serving as your Social Good Scholarship Fund Committee Chair.

As the 2018 Social Good Scholarship Fund Committee Chair, I was tasked with leading the discussions that helped the Foundation determine award eligibility. On a personal note, this is the Lampkin Foundation program initiative I most look forward to every year. I am always impressed by the caliber of submissions received from all over the nation. And I suspect year 2019 will be no different. Our scholars are engaged and making a significant impact in their neighborhood and positively shaping its development.

For me, education means empowerment and growth; the ability to introduce modern ideas and inspire others to contribute to a shared vision. Education can have a profound impact on how a community develops.

It is now with great excitement that I share with you the recipients of awards and highlights of the selection process. I hope you enjoy reading about all the "Social Good" our scholars are doing to make their communities stronger and more resilient.

SOCIAL GOOD SCHOLARSHIP FUND HIGHLIGHTS

Since February 2017, the Lampkin Foundation grants scholarship awards, in addition to connecting students with service opportunities from all over the nation. How do we define “social good?” It’s simply how we help others in a way that benefits the largest number of people in the largest way possible. The Lampkin Foundation is pleased to announce the winners of the 2018 Social Good scholarships.

Education As A Foundation to Build

Traditionally, the term social good is used to describe an act or service that benefits society. Acts or services tend to impact and benefit the largest number of people in a region in the largest way possible. Some examples include initiatives and projects focused on clean air, clean water, and literacy.

The Lampkin Foundation believes if you want to make a difference, you must work to improve the world around you through volunteer work and supporting causes that matter to you. The Lampkin Foundation is a 501(c)(3) charitable organization. All scholarship amounts issued are made possible thanks to the generosity of our donor community.

According to a recent study conducted by Nielsen, 50% of global consumers are willing to pay more for goods and services from socially responsible companies. Companies with social good programs is clearly something that matters to global audiences. In addition, companies with social good programs provide an instant source of camaraderie that brings employees together and makes them feel more connected. It also provides a source of motivation and direction for employees who often wonder where and how they can help the community they serve or the community where they reside.

Elaine Kan
Glendale, California

$500 Scholarship Recipient

Elaine Kan gained a notable following on Instagram this past year due to her fashion. She uses her platform to teach her younger followers how to love themselves and increase their confidence through what they wear. Elaine’s Instagram has developed into a community of young girls who support and lift each other up in dialogue. She wishes to expand on her mission – to transcend her capacity as a role model by designing what she calls “social armor” for others.

Elaine has learned that fashion is an art which she can bend to illustrate an idea or communicate a message. She believes she has the power to create wearable art that makes a statement – whether emotional, political, or social. Elaine has plans to attend the Fashion Institute of Design & Merchandising to continue creating “social armor” and foster discussions around self worth.

Allison reminds us that there are people in the world who wake up everyday and made to feel excluded from the rest of society. People with special needs are far too often not exerted to their fullest potential and sometimes segregated due to their uncontrollable differences. Allison chooses to work with people with special needs because they deserve to be included in communities plans to make everyone more successful. When it comes to how society identifies who is characterized as a successful person, Allison has a passion to share her vision of including those with special needs and seeing them integrated seamlessly into society.

Allison plans to pursue a degree in special education and return to her community to become an educator specialized in K-12 Special Education.

“I intend to pursue a lifelong mission to spread inclusion throughout local communities and the world by cultivating understanding and acceptance.”

Believing In Our Future Leaders

Our Social Good Scholarship Fund endeavors to get students to begin thinking critically about how they intend to use higher education as a tool to make their respective communities stronger and more resilient. The application process is interactive and incorporates insights from Lampkin Foundation supporters, thought leaders, and community organizers.

It is not just about high Grade Point Averages and SAT scores. Scholarship Committee participants rate students based on their academic studies and a healthy balance of community involvement. Scholarship recipients are able to demonstrate how they are already impacting their community in positive ways.

This year 54, high school senior and juniors met application requirements. Each application was carefully reviewed and considered for community involvement, creative approaches to resolving issues facing their community, and the student's ability to involve others in their mission.

SOCIAL GOOD BENEFIT GALA HIGHLIGHTS

To illustrate our commitment to building stronger, more resilient communities, we chose to host this year's benefit gala at the city of Ontario's Historic Beverly Hotel (now Beverly Banquets) located on Euclid Avenue. This was our way of bringing awareness to the grassroots efforts to develop Euclid Avenue into a prosperous and innovative town center. We are committed to supporting the local residents who are working hard to achieve this vision. Not only is it the home city of our young organization, but the epicenter of development for the next urban center of Southern California.

CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY HERO OF THE YEAR

Modeling the Way for Community Partnerships

Communities are more than the just the people who live in them. Communities also include the companies that depend on the residents to thrive. Therefore, companies have an obligation to provide opportunities to those who make them successful, particularly in cities, where the benefits of revitalization are not accessible to everyone.

Our donor partners understand that the vast majority of their operations involve public service. It is the reason why their employees engage in the profession of their choice. They care for and about the people they serve and inherently want to give back.

This year, the Lampkin Foundation introduced the Corporate Social Responsibility Hero of the Year Award and chose Lowe's Home Improvement #2270 as its first recipient.

The award recognizes corporations who share the Foundations vision and demonstrate the following attributes within the community where they do business:

- Assess and take responsibility for the company's effects on the region's economic and social well-being,
- Remain vigilant for ways we can improve the health of the communities we serve,
- and contribute to sustainable development by delivering economic benefits for all stakeholders.

WORKING TOWARD MORE RESILIENT COMMUNITIES

The Disaster Relief Continues To Be A Team Effort

Following the outbreak of the 2018 Southern California wildfires, The D'Andre D. Lampkin Foundation met with our donor partner, Kiss the Monkeys to coordinate and organize disaster relief supplies at the front lines of the fire.

While organizing supplies at Los Angeles Fire Station 84, volunteers saw first hand what the first phase of a disaster response looks like. They're doing the best they can on behalf of residents and cooperative partnerships with community organizations is an absolutely necessity so that they can focus on what they are trained to do best.

Joint Fundraiser Gained $1590 for SoCal Wildfire Victims

Thanks to donors we were able to play a pivotal role in developing what will inevitably become a source of relief for disaster victims. Many thanks to the donors and the 80 volunteers.

Supporting Those Who Serve Our Communities Everyday

We continue to be inspired by the stories of ordinary citizens, our first responders, emergency management leaders, and people from all over the nation volunteering their time and resources to help those in need.

We remain steadfast in ensuring our response is in direct alignment with our vision for communities that are strong, fully engaged, and resilient; where all stakeholders are self-reliant and fully supported by sustainable ingenuity and grassroots efforts.
